Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133).
- Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☐ Responsive to communication(s) filed on ____.
- 2a) ☒ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☐ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Disposition of Claims

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors. Such as "a toggle mechanism for operating to rotate..." [claim 1 line 7], "when said moving contact is in contact with said fixed contact..." [claim 2 line 4, is applicant referring to the impact force of the moving contact being brought into contact with said moving contact].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kume in view of Kralik.

Art Unit: 2832

Regarding claim 1, refer to figure 6. Kume teaches a circuit breaker comprising a power source side terminal member, a fixed contact, an opposing moving contact, a moving contact support, a coil [2] operatively connected to the moving contact, a load-side terminal member. An opening/closing mechanism including a toggle mechanism for rotating the moving contact support member so as to bring the moving contact into and out of contact with the fixed contact. A trip lever of a disengaging device [3] mounted on the yoke of the coil in the disengaging device that is separated from the fixed frame of the opening/closing mechanism.

Kume does not implicitly show the use of a fixed frame.

Kralik discloses the use of a fixed frame [70, 72, figure 7] in a circuit breaker to support the toggle mechanism.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the two teachings. Providing the circuit breaker of Kume with a fixed frame for the toggle mechanism would increase its strength/durability by providing solid support and decrease the amount of stress on the housing when the toggle mechanism is operated.

Regarding claim 2, the fixed frame is held by a case [Kralik figure 2] and yoke is held by a case. As suggested by Kume the frame and yoke are disposed at different positions such that the impact force generated by closing the breaker is transmitted to the case to prevent a mistrip.

Regarding claim 3, the fixed frame is supported by the case as shown by Kralik.

Response to Amendment

Applicants arguments with respect to claims 1-3 have been considered but are moot in view of the amended claims now pending since they necessitate a new ground of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Harper teaches the use of a fixed frame to support the toggle mechanism and a yoke from the coil supporting the trip lever.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
